Popular Capsule Toys for Foreign Travelers Also Available at Terminal 1

Kansai Airports announces that T-ARTS capsule vending machines, Gacha, will be installed at Kansai International Airport's Terminal 1 on Thursday, July 27, 2017.

Reflecting favorable performance of 118 Gacha machines initially installed at Terminal 2, new machines will be expanded to Terminal 1. Out of 145 machines in total, 89 will be installed under escalators in the central area of 2F Domestic Departure/ Arrival Floor. In International Departure Area after going through the immigration counters, about 15 machines will be installed at each Intermediate and Final Stations of both North and South Wings, which enables passengers who use any of the gates to play Gacha.

The machines adopt new designs for foreign travelers such as showing an instructional video in multiple languages, displaying product samples, and installing a larger-scale display with introduction of popular or recommended products. The company expects more customers to enjoy this Japanese unique souvenir, Gacha.

Kansai Airports will continue to create new travel experiences, promoting unique products, services, and cultures in Japan.
