

Hainan Airlines to launch new service to KIX

- Three weekly flights on KIX-Shenzhen route -

Kansai Airports today announced that Hainan Airlines (HU) will launch a new service connecting Kansai International Airport (KIX) to Shenzhen with three weekly flights, beginning February 2, 2019. The airline will serve KIX again for the first time since the 2008 summer schedule. Hainan Airlines, based in Haikou, Hainan, was certified in Skytrax's 2018 World Airline Awards as a 5-star airline for the eighth consecutive year.

Shenzhen, one of four major cities in mainland China and bordering Hong Kong, is a special economic zone established by the Chinese government and has been in the spotlight for its growth potential for business. With the introduction of the new service, the number of nonstop flights between KIX and Shenzhen will total 15 flights a week, and further growth in air travel demand is expected between the two destinations.

Kansai Airports will continue to expand its global network to provide a convenient and comfortable travel experience for all passengers.

Kansai Airports was established by a consortium made up of VINCI Airports and ORIX Corporation as its core members. Kansai Airports took over the operations of Kansai International Airport (“KIX”) and Osaka International Airport (“ITAMI”) from New Kansai International Airport Company (“NKIAC”) and has been operating the two airports since April 1, 2016.

Kansai Airports Kobe, Kansai Airports’ wholly-owned subsidiary, took over the operations of Kobe Airport (“KOBE”) from Kobe City and started its business as an operating company on April 1, 2018.

Under the concept of “One Kansai Airports Group”, Kansai Airports group strives to continuously improve its services for all airport guests through appropriate investments and efficient operations, with safety and security being the top priority. Kansai Airports group aims to maximize the potential of the three airports, for the benefit of the communities they serve.
