

Juneyao Airlines to launch new daily service between KIX and Changsha

Kansai Airports is delighted to announce that Juneyao Airlines (HO) will begin new daily service between Kansai International Airport (KIX) and Changsha, beginning July 1, 2019.

Following growing travel demands from China, the Shanghai-based full-service carrier has been serving KIX since 2014, offering lower fares than major full-service airlines, along with complementary in-flight meal, check-in baggage and other services. With this network expansion, Changsha will be the fifth destination from KIX on Juneyao Airlines after Shanghai, Yinchuan (via Shanghai), Nanjing, and Qingdao, and the new route is expected to drive air demand even further.

Located in south central China, Changsha is home to over seven million people and also a key commercial city with many Japanese companies doing business there. Having a rich natural environment, the city boasts a wealth of attractions, including Mt. Yuelu, important cultural properties, historic spots and scenic beauty.

Kansai Airports is committed to expanding its global network to provide more convenient and comfortable travel experiences for all its customers.
